

CALL FOR PAPERS

DDHHGLOBAL2023

IV International Conference on Human Rights and Globalization

MARCH 2023

Faculty of Philosophy
University of La Laguna. TENERIFE

27 - 28 ONLINE
29 - 30 - 31 FACE TO FACE

Co-organized by the University of La Laguna and the University of Seville

Dear colleagues,

Next March (2023) the IV edition of the International Congress on Human Rights and Globalisation will be held at the University of La Laguna (Tenerife) in the last week of March. The Canary Islands is a crossroads between three continents (Africa, Europe and America), a mixture of cultures and a frontier between seas, making it a symbolic setting for reflection on the dilemmas of human rights in a globalised world.

This edition will focus on new vulnerabilities of fundamental rights and we have already confirmed the participation of Daniel Innerarity, winner of the 2022 national research prize.

Other speakers will include Teresa López de la Vieja, professor at the University of Salamanca, and the renowned specialist in Human Rights in Latin America, David Sánchez Rubio (University of Seville).

We will probably also have Professor Boaventura de Sousa Santos and some renowned jurists. There will also be round tables on immigration, artificial intelligence and hate speech, three new scenarios of human rights vulnerabilities.

At DDHHGLOBAL you will have the opportunity to participate in complementary social activities to strengthen academic relationships with other colleagues and share ideas for new academic projects. We look forward to seeing you at DDHHGLOBAL 2023 (Tenerife).

You can submit your proposal until 31 January 2023 and register before 15 February to benefit from the early bird registration modality, with cheaper prices. You can find all the information at: ddhhglobal.com and if you have any questions, please contact us at: cddhhglobal@gmail.com
